

College follows the curriculum designed by university. Therefore there is no particular mechanism for feedback on curriculum by college student or parents. But if any suggestions are received from stakeholders they are communicated to University or respective BOS, such cases are very rare. Various faculty members are working under BOS committees and sub-committees and thus participate in syllabus framing. These members are the representative of college teachers. Teacher can directly recommend certain points to BOS members during syllabus discussion workshops / meetings.